COURSE CONTENT

PHONETICS - LANGUAGE LAB

Introduction to Phonetics

Phonetics is the study of the actual sounds that make up the words of a language. Every language has its own characteristics and there are sounds in English that you might not use in your language, and words in your language that we might not use in English and one of the more difficult things about English is the spelling and pronunciation. This introduction to phonetics will look at the difference between the written spelling and the actual pronunciation. We only have 26 letters in the alphabet but modern English uses about 44 different sounds. So when you look at a word, it can be difficult to know, from the spelling, how to pronounce it because the same letters can be pronounced differently in different words.

The Vocal - Speech Organs

Speech is produced by the vocal organs. Every language has a definite set of speech sounds, and every sound can be described with reference to the vocal organ that is used to produce it. In this way sounds occurring in different languages can be compared, and foreign language learners can be helped to overcome pronunciation problems that arise from differences between languages. Knowledge of how the vocal organs function to produce the various sounds of a language will make near-native sound production possible.

Speech is produced by air from the lungs being processed or modified by all speech organs above the lungs: the glottis, pharynx, nose, tongue, and lips. The individual sound is identified by the closure or narrowing of these organs. If we see the tongue as the active articulator, the place which does not move can be called the passive articulator. Labels refer to the place where the closure or narrowing occurs, which means that the name normally refers to the passive articulator.

The speech sounds often have their names from the Latin name of the vocal organ:

Nasal sounds	: through nose (velum down)
Oral sounds	: through mouth (velum up)
Stops	: full oral closure
Fricatives	: partial oral closure (friction)
Approximants	: narrowing (no friction)

Labial	: from labium, lip(s) active
Dental	: from dentes, teeth active
Alveolar	: Alveoles, teeth ridge active
Palatal	: Palate, hard palate active
Velar	: Velum, soft palate active
Glottal	: Glottis, vocal cords active

Consonants

Consonant phonemes
	Labial	Dental	Alveolar	Post-alveolar	Palatal	Velar	Glottal
Nasal	m		n			ŋ
Stop	p b		t d			k ɡ
Affricate				tʃ dʒ
Fricative	f v	θ ð	s z	ʃ ʒ			h
Approximant			l	r	j	w

Nasals and liquids (/m/, /n/, /ŋ/, /r/, /l/) may be syllabic in unstressed syllables.<sup>[15]</sup> While the IPA symbol [ɹ] is phonetically correct for the consonant in 'row', 'arrow' in many accents of American and British English, most published work on Received Pronunciation represents this phoneme as /r/.

Voiceless plosives (/p/, /t/, /k/, /tʃ/) are aspirated at the beginning of a syllable, unless a completely unstressed vowel follows. (For example, the /p/ is aspirated in "im-passe", with primary stress on "-passe", but not "com-pass", where "-pass" has no stress.) Aspiration does not occur when /s/ precedes in the same syllable, as in "spot" or "stop". When a sonorant /l/, /r/, /w/, or /j/ follows, this aspiration is indicated by partial devoicing of the sonorant.<sup>[46]</sup> /r/ is a fricative when devoiced.<sup>[45]</sup>

Syllable final /p/, /t/, /tʃ/, and /k/ may be either preceded by a glottal stop (glottal reinforcement) or, in the case of /t/, fully replaced by a glottal stop, especially before a syllabic nasal (bitten [ɒbɪŋ̥]).<sup>[46][47]</sup> The glottal stop may be realised as creaky voice; thus, an alternative phonetic transcription of attempt [əpɪ<sup>h</sup>emʔ] could be [əpɪ<sup>h</sup>em̩t].<sup>[45]</sup>

As in other varieties of English, voiced plosives (/b/, /d/, /g/, /dʒ/) are partly or even fully devoiced at utterance boundaries or adjacent to voiceless consonants. The voicing distinction between voiced and voiceless sounds is reinforced by a number of other differences, with the result that the two of consonants can clearly be distinguished even in the presence of devoicing of voiced sounds:

1. Aspiration of voiceless consonants syllable-initially.
2. Glottal reinforcement of voiceless consonants syllable-finally.
3. Lengthening of vowels before voiced consonants.

As a result, some authors prefer to use the terms "fortis" and "lenis" in place of "voiceless" and "voiced". However, the latter are traditional and in more frequent usage.

The voiced dental fricative (/ð/) is more often a weak dental plosive; the sequence /nð/ is often realised as [ɲ] (a long dental nasal).<sup>[48][49][50]</sup> /r/ has a velarised allophone ([ɹ]) in the syllable rhyme.<sup>[51]</sup> /l/ becomes voiced ([ɫ]) between voiced sounds.<sup>[52][53]</sup>

Intonation

In linguistics, intonation is variation of spoken pitch that is not used to distinguish words; instead it is used for a range of functions such as indicating the attitudes and emotions of the speaker, signalling the difference between statements and questions, and between different types of questions, focusing attention on important elements of the spoken message and also helping to regulate conversational interaction.

Types

1. Rising Intonation
2. Falling Intonation
3. Rise-Fall Intonation
4. Fall Rise Intonation

Voice Modulation

Voice is GOD's gift and no one is born voice rich, it needs to be trained enough to modulate, vary and be able to perform professionally for required time. Here i have few TIPS for you to regulate your throat to produce variation and modulation in your voice as and when necessary. Basically, Voice Modulation is a change in stress, pitch, loudness, or tone of the voice and an inflection of the voice. which gives your voice mood meaning and sounds attractive. You can utilize this too. Here are few components of voice modulation.

Pace or Speech speed: It must always be at a speed that the listener can understand. Put the pace at that speed where the listener can understand you properly.

Pitch or Depth of voice: Keep it at a level that is comfortable for you and don't strain your vocal cords.

Pause: Pauses should be given at required intervals like where there is punctuation. It is given to let the listener absorb your information. It is given for emphasis and dramatic effect.

Power: In order to create power in your voice you should not speak from your mouth but from inside from the abdomen, make it commanding by generating intensity in your voice.

Volume: Try and match your listener's speech volume, unless they are shouting. Try dropping your volume so that they have to drop their volume to hear you. Maintain your volume according to the listener decrease or increase (do not shout to increase it be loud).

Emphasis: Put emphasis by putting some pressure or focus on the key words or syllables in order to provide contrast to your words bring out their desired meaning.

Inflection: Inflection means ups and downs of words. In combination inflection links meaning and feeling with your words.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE ASSESSMENT READING AND WRITING

Maximum Marks : 100

Duration : 50 minutes

Exercise 1 Read the following article about kite flying, and then answer the questions. (20 minutes)

THE WORLD OF KITE FLYING

Kite flying is a popular hobby for children and adults. Kites are named after a particular bird of prey, which is known for its graceful movement in flight and its sudden turns and dives to change direction. Kite flying has a long history and has been the subject of many poems and stories for thousands of years.

SO MUCH VARIETY

Kites come in a huge variety of colours, shapes and sizes. The shape of the kite is vital because it affects the height and speed at which it flies. The flat kite is a traditional diamond shape and is probably the best known type of kite. The box kite is made with holes that trap the air, which means that it can fly at a greater height in the sky. The top altitude records for kite flying are usually held by large box kites. One of the newest designs, invented in 1963, is the 'parafoil' kite. It is shaped like a parachute, and is very popular with sailors and canoeists because it is fast and flexible when attached to the front of the boat.

THE FIRST KITES

No one knows exactly when the first kites were invented. It is generally thought that their origin was in China about 2 800 years ago. However, cave paintings found on Muna Island in Indonesia show that basic kites may have been in existence for much longer, maybe even for 30 000 years. Early Chinese kites were used to measure distances, test the speed and direction of the wind, and as a form of communication. The explorer, Marco Polo, probably introduced kites to Europe around the end of the 13th century.

KITES TODAY

Today, people fly kites mostly as a hobby or for sport and aerial displays, and kite competitions are taken very seriously by enthusiasts. Kites are also used to pull sledges across the snow and even skaters across the ice. They do have more serious purposes: they have contributed to scientific research into flight, and the way in which air and gravity affect planes and helicopters. They are also useful in the world of work. In the South Sea Islands, for example, kites are important as a fishing aid. Fishermen attach bait to the end of the kite to catch the fish.

In Korea, many parents write the names and birth dates of their children on kites. In Japan, kites are a traditional New Year's gift for children. In Australia, in 1893, the box kite was invented by Lawrence Hargrave. He joined several box kites together in an attempt to develop a flying machine, and was successful in flying about 5 metres off the ground.

(a) Where do kites get their name from? Kites were named after a bird-like shape.
They were known for the flat, diamond-shaped frame, which resembles a bird's wings. [1]

Dear Neena,

Today I am really to say write this letter to you. I hope you are fine. And the things are going well.

I need to inform you that I got an golden opportunity that I got a chance to see our famous and loved N.R. Rahman, a successful event. I got the ticket in my college friend Ankit's father, who was an
in all in that function.

We went there by taking bus. I was really used when I went there, as it was a great honor. I really stuck when I see him and hear song. The function was held at white palace.
I really liked the programme and was really interested to hear his song. I think in my life will never get a chance to meet him again

and I will never forget that golden moment.

With love,
Wafan Bashee.
