- The manner and degree in which currents of thought and waves of emotion are initiated, guided, and controlled by the will has more effect
- The life of the animal is entirely ruled by instinct from within, and by accidental circumstances from without
- therefore incapable of acquiring a character
- A human, through reasoning and the growth of reflection, by the exercise of choice against the impulse, gradually develops self-control; and it is by the exercise of this power that moral character is formed and reformed

Types of Character

From the four fundamental temperaments (different psychologists)

- A. Bain
  - The intellectual,
  - the emotional, and
  - the volitional or energetic
- M. Pérez, (based on the phenomenon of movement)
  - lively,
  - slow,
  - Ardent (enthusiastic)
  - well-balanced.
- M. Ribot
  - the sensitive (humble, contemplative and emotional),
  - the active
  - the apathetic (dull), and
  - the intelligent.

Ethics and Character

- The effect on the person's character of a particular form of conduct is a universally accepted as a test of its moral quality
- With the utilitarian, who places the ethical end in the maximum happiness for the whole community, benevolence (kindness) will form the primary element in the ideal character. For the stoic, fortitude (courage in pain) and self-control are the chief excellences
- Another essential is the virtue of justice, the recognition of the rights, duties, and claims of others.
- The richer the culture of the mind, the larger the intellectual horizon, the broader the sympathies, the more will the character approximate to the ideal of human perfection.

Education and Character

- The aim of education is not only the cultivation of the intellect but also the formation of moral character.
